

A Fire-fighters Four Enemies in High Rise Fires

People
Complacency
Environment
Wind

Join NYFD Chief, John Buckeit, for an informative presentation and and discussion on High Rise Fire-Fighting.

Wednesday, October 14th at 10am

Featuring International Guest Speaker
NYFD Battalion Chief John Buckheit

Buckheit is a New York City Fire Chief with nearly three decades of firefighting and emergency response experience.

In 1986 Buckheit joined the New York Fire Department and was assigned to Downtown Brooklyn. In 2008, he became a Battalion Chief in Midtown Manhattan making him responsible for administration, training, and emergency operation of 7 fire units, comprised of 7 Captains, 21 Lieutenants, and 140 Firefighters.

The area has hundreds of high-rise buildings housing thousands of occupancies. Hundreds of thousands of residents, commuters, and visitors use the local resources daily. It is also home to critical infrastructure features including the Penn Station Transportation Hub, the Empire State Building, Macy's Department Store, and the Google Building.

Hosted at Level M Regional 3 Headquarters

Hutt/Wairarapa Room (Report to reception on arrival)
Light refreshments provided

RSVP for catering alaster.jefferys@fire.org or mike.dombroski@fire.org.nz
Limited Space Book Early

PSL
FIRE & SAFETY

apctechsafe

Metalcraft
Insulated Panel Systems

©111Emergency 2015